1. The resident-staff communication and response system was not clearly indicating, when activated, where the signal was coming from. In August, 2013 during the evening shift at 1920 hours, it was noted the pagers used by the personal support workers were not functional, therefore staff could not identify which resident's were ringing their call bell for assistance. The home uses a pager system to alert staff when resident has activated a call bell. One evening, 2013 during the evening shift, a resident activated the call bell to request assistance. The light in the hallway was visible and activated. When the inspector entered the room, the resident was in distress and was asking for assistance. The personal support workers did not respond to the activated call bell. The nursing staff were notified of the resident's need for assistance, then the personal support worker's pagers were checked. Two personal support workers were not carrying a pager, and the remaining five pagers carried by the rest of the personal support workers were not functioning. When the batteries were located by the charge nurse and replaced in each pager, they became functional. The personal support workers, registered staff and the assistant director of care confirmed the pagers were non functional until the batteries were replaced. [s. 17. (1) (f)]

Additional Required Actions:

VPC - pursuant to the Long-Term Care Homes Act, 2007, S.O. 2007, c.8, s.152(2) the licensee is hereby requested to prepare a written plan of correction for achieving compliance that ensures the home is equipped with a resident-staff communication and response system that, clearly indicates when activated where the signal is coming from, to be implemented voluntarily.
